WE SEE... STUDENTS' EXPERIENCE

Coming from a high school with a dominantly Asian-American demographic, I felt like I wasn't able to fully express my identity culturally when I first came to college. I've realized, though, especially through groups like AASP [Asian American Sponsor Program] and AASU [Asian American Student Union], that there are so many people who share some of my experiences as Asian-Americans. Being Asian-American is a part of my identity that I can be proud to show.
